On page 218, between lines 6 and 7, insert the following:

SEC. 8109. (a) Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The United States is engaged in a global war on terror that has no clear geographic boundaries, is of unknown duration, and is against an enemy with no state sponsor that continues to commit senseless acts of violence and human destruction.

(2) Detention of enemy combatants in this war is necessary for the security of members of the Armed Forces and the achievement of United States national security and foreign policy objectives, but must be conducted in a way that upholds United States values and international law.

(3) Since January 11, 2002, Naval Station Guantanamo Bay has been used for the detention and interrogation of about 750 enemy combatants, of which approximately 460 remain incarcerated and only 10 of whom have been formally charged with crimes and been subject to legal adjudication through military commissions.

(4) The Supreme Court, in Hamdan v. Rumsfeld, 126 S.Ct. 2749, held that the nature and rules governing the United States Government's military commissions were in violation of the Uniform Code of Military Justice and did not comply with the Geneva Conventions.

(5) Official investigations and reports by the United States Government confirm multiple incidents of psychological and physical abuse inflicted upon detainees at Guantanamo, some of which included—

(A) the threatened use of extreme force by guards against detainees;

(B) sleep deprivation;

(C) forced stress positions;

(D) the use of dogs in interrogations; and

(E) the harsh manipulation of light, sound, and temperature.

(6) President George W. Bush stated on June 21, 2006, "I'd like to end Guantanamo. I'd like it to be over with," yet the President has not offered a specific plan for transitioning the current detainees to another status.

(7) The individuals currently detained at the detention facility at Guantanamo Bay, many of whom appear to have little or no remaining intelligence value in the global war on terror, could be—

(A) transferred to other countries for further legal review;

(B) enrolled in United States domestic civil, criminal, or military court proceedings;

(C) transferred to a separate military detention facility that fully complies with United States domestic law, international law, and the law of war; or

(D) released if found not to pose a continuing security threat to the United States.

(8) The international perception of the detention facility at Guantanamo Bay is negative and has created substantial hostility toward the United States, raising reservations among friends and allies of the United States and other countries about the commitment of the United States to human rights.

(9) Members of the Armed Forces and other Americans who may be captured overseas and detained by other countries, or by non-state groups, are more likely to be treated in a manner fully consistent with the Geneva Conventions if individuals detained by the United States are treated in the same manner.

(10) The security of the United States will not be diminished, United States diplomacy will be furthered, and the standing of the United States in the world will be enhanced if the detention facility at Guantanamo Bay is closed and all detainees are transitioned to another legal status.

(b) Not later than one year after the date of the enactment of this Act—

(1) the Secretary of Defense shall close the Department of Defense detention facility at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; and

(2) all detainees detained at such facility shall be—

(A) charged with a violation of United States or international law and tried in an Article III court or military legal proceeding before a regularly-constituted court;

(B) transferred to a separate military detention facility that fully complies with all United States and international law and the law of war;

(C) transferred to their country of citizenship or a different country for further legal review; or

(D) released if found not to pose a continuing security threat to the United States.
